WELCOME KEN BARLOW... CORONATION STREET STAR JOINS THE CASTLE COMFORT TEAM

By Ivan Enderley-Mills - Senior Correspondent

Wolstanton based homecare products specialist Castle Comfort Centre now has one of the most famous faces in the history of British TV on their team. Actor William Roache, who plays Coronation Street's Ken Barlow, not only took time off from a busy acting schedule to join the voting panel of the CCC Carer of the Year award - but he insisted that reigning champion carer Cynthia Hughes from Bucknall and CCC directors joined him in 'Ken Barlow's front room' at the Manchester Granada Studios. Mr Roache who has appeared in 'Corrie' for 48 years and is the only remaining member of the original cast said that choosing the winner out of all the entries was indeed a tough decision. He told the Clarion and the Sentinel "All carers deserve a medal, so it was a very difficult decision to make but in the end it came down to Cynthia".

A special welcome to the latest CCC team member

Keith Simpson Managing Director and founder of the UK's leading provider of stairlifts, special chairs and beds said "Mr Roache, who we have found to be totally down to earth, kind and an absolute gentleman had no hesitation in joining our voting team. "When he telephoned me with the suggestion that Cynthia's achievement be celebrated with a trip to 'Corrie' we were there

By Jerry Attrick - Clarion Health Correspondent

84 years young Norman with a healthy breakfast!

One of the advanced features of a Castle Comfort Stairlift is the audible alert it gives off when something needs attention. It can be for many reasons - eg someone has accidentally switched it off at the plug - or perhaps it isn't parked in the right position - and although unlikely, there is a fault - even the best models around can sometimes 'have a bleep.'

When retired Rolls Royce draughtsman

Norman Jackson had a new CCC lift installed - he proudly nicknamed it 'his Roller' but was somewhat surprised to hear it bleeping. Rather than call CCC's 24-hour help line service, the technical genius decided to investigate himself. After finding no clues in the handbook he suspected the reason came from another part of his home - the kitchen. 'That's it' he thought. 'Diagnosis complete.' His boiled eggs had been put on the go a few minutes before and the rather piercing efficient egg timer blasted off when he was part way up the stairs. Norman, originally from Norfolk was delighted to tell the tale to CCC staff when they were making a routine courtesy call to check up on the recently installed stairlift.

All concerned have seen the funny side, and this sprightly character (a young 84) indeed deserves to have his life cheered up. Norman had a bit of a fright when a check-up at the doctor's revealed a blood pressure count so extraordinarily high that it was remarkable he hadn't suffered serious consequences. His concerned GP, apart from prescribing medicines, has recommended that the afternoon tippie of brandy - followed by an evening measure of whisky should continue. That advice, has definitely gone down well with Norman! The Clarion is aware of this busy doctor's identity, but is keeping it confidential, as we suspect he would get a rush of registration applications!

Cheers Norm - keep up with the medicine

ELSIE FROM 'CORRIE' GETS HER CCC ELECTRIC BED!

And we refer not to the Street's legendary Elsie Tanner, but to Elsie of Coronation Street, Tunstall!

For years Wolstanton based homecare products specialist Castle Comfort Centre have been able to proudly state that they have clients in virtually every street for miles around. The Clarion photographer couldn't miss the chance to snap the moment when Elsie Hand, aged 89, took delivery of a vital mobility aid at her home in..... CORONATION STREET! It is not of course TV's 'Corrie' but the slightly less-known Coronation Street in Tunstall! Other specialist companies may claim that adjustable beds cannot be delivered to this part of the city due to very narrow stairs - but Castle Comfort's skill with windows solved the problem.

THE ALTERNATIVE - COMPLIMENTARY... OR COMPLEMENTARY?

By Florence Westminster - Health Correspondent

We refer to medicine – in particular to two phrases that have become common in our language in recent years – alternative medicine, and often thought to be the same – complementary medicine. Well, the common confusion between the 'I versus E' spelling here may give us a clue to the difference. 'Complimentary' of course means free, whereas complementary refers to 'complete.' The latter refers to non-conventional treatment used in addition to the mainstream remedies recommended by a doctor. 'Alternative Medicine' means just that – something totally on its own track, which your GP may or may not like.

With the lesson in language purism out of the way – The Clarion is delighted to announce the arrival of an exciting new venture at Basford entitled WELLBEING & HEALTH, which offers a wide variety of Complementary Medicine in newly refurbished, private consulting rooms.

Headed by co-owner and local respected orthopaedic surgeon Ian Dos Remedios, along with a skilled management team of Lynn Hargreaves and Helen Spring – their team of specialists offers many types of treatments, and at reasonable cost. These include Acupuncture, Reflexology, Chinese Therapy, Shiatsu etc and not least, treatments for sports injuries – which of course is one of the specialities of Mr Dos Remedios himself. Wellbeing also has a laser system providing non-invasive procedures including tattoo removal, a treatment which has not been readily available in this area.

We have certainly moved a long way since the 1970s when any kind of move away from conventional methods of looking after our health may have been looked at sceptically. But now, such expert and beneficial treatments as those offered at Wellbeing &

Health, situated on Etruria Road, close to the Emergency Doctors' Cooperative are definitely here to stay. Why not compliment yourself? (or is it complement!)

Opening hours are 9-5, Monday to Friday. Tel 01782 619280 to book an appointment - or visit - www.wellbeing-health.com

NO LONGER WITH US Gaz Clapinski - Retired pharmacist

The past year has seen the sad passing of leading North Staffordshire pharmacist Gaz Clapinski at the age of just 57.

Mr Clapinski had been the Chairman of the National Pharmaceutical Association and consistently used his influence to battle for better services. Many of us take late night pharmacy opening for granted now, but Gaz pioneered the concept. In the 1980's he had his own business in High Lane Burslem, spearheading campaigns such as that for public awareness of the danger of used needles and out of date medicines, and the fact that the likes of aspirin and paracetamol could be lethal if taken to excess.

Keith Simpson of CCC told The Clarion 'I remember Gaz very well. His attention, service and enthusiasm offered to everyone was often better than could be obtained at the doctors, so his shop was always busy – especially with the likes of me who regularly used the area's first blood pressure checking service.'

Dr. Neil Stirling, Castle Comfort's Honorary Ambassador commented 'During my many years in the medical practice, I got to know Gaz well. He was always helpful, informative, popular and served the area well' Gaz will be sadly missed.

THE MOST MOBILE OF MOBILITY COMPANIES

By Florence Westminster - Health Correspondent

One of the hallmarks of Castle Comfort Centre's success has been their willingness to always take their products and services to the people - rather than expect many, who perhaps find getting out a little difficult, to come to them. Their roaming displays at places like Morrison's stores, Freeport, The Roebuck Centre, Trentham Gardens etc, along with the permanent indoor market branches at Longton and Tunstall for years have been noticed and appreciated by thousands. Also, the popular homecare products specialist regularly visits many residential locations - such as housing association complexes, and community developments especially designed for the over 55's. If you manage or live in a community that may enjoy a call from the directors of CCC, and maybe even Doctor Stirling - why not ask for a visit? The residents of Lisbon Place, Newcastle did, and were delighted to be fixed up with walking sticks at cost price, a free stick ferrule change service and discounts on many other Castle Comfort products.

Dear Keith & Ann

Thank you for the interesting visit. It is so refreshing these days to have a reliable local company approaching our residents without pressuring them into buying - and for them to have the absolute confidence of sincere and understanding after-sales service. You deserve to do well.

CCC CHIEF RATTLES ON - Rotary Style

Few Rotary Club meetings permit the presence of jeans/leather jacketed guests - but when Dr Agarwal asked CCC MD Keith Simpson to give an after dinner speech - an exception was made. Keith not used to such dress etiquette turned up wearing normal daily work gear. He was delighted to entertain the Newcastle Rotary Club with the account of how the Wolsanton - based business began at the end of the last century - and became a leading homecare products specialist player in both the UK & Europe.

The happy expressions of all those present at the Ramada Hotel, Clayton, suggest the entertainment, despite the lack of formal attire from the guest speaker who performed without a script or even notes, went down well.

DOUG BROWN FUND PAYOUT WAS ALWAYS BOUND FOR BUCKNALL

By Jerry Attrick - Clarion Health Correspondent

Castle Comfort directors often have a difficult decision to make when choosing the destination of a major payment from their charity fund. However, when they heard that vital new respiratory equipment was needed by Bucknall Hospital - MD Keith Simpson had no hesitation.

He told the Clarion 'We receive a huge amount of referral business from local hospitals, but Bucknall in particular is noticeable. 'I'm sure it is something to do with my late mother, Doreen, who spent her last days there, proudly promoting her son's business!'

The Doug Brown Motor Neurone Charity, of which Terry Conroy is patron, was named after the former twice Lord Mayor of Stoke on Trent who died in 2002.

Doug was a well known and influential ambassador for the whole of north Staffordshire and became affectionately known as the 'People's Champion'.

Staff from Bucknall Hospital receive a fund pay out from Dr Stirling and Terry Conroy of CCC. Also present - Mrs Joyce Brown, son Martin and Councillor Mark Olszewski

He was the pioneer of the Ladsandsad football movement.

Joyce Brown, his wife of 52 years, always proudly attends (accompanied by other family members) whenever CCC's charity arm asks for fund presentation assistance.

ROGER IS JUST WRIGHT FOR EVEREST

By Hilary Cardiff – Mountaineering Correspondent

Super fit Roger Wright of Light Oaks is returning to the Himalayas region with a team of 20 colleagues to install a power plant in a remote poverty-stricken village. Engineer Roger, who was an AA patrolman, will be sleeping under canvas and working hard after funding his own travel expenses.

When Castle Comfort Stairlifts learnt of the magnificent effort they kick-started the appeal with a £1,000 donation as the least £5,000 will be needed to install the hydro electric plant in an area off the Mount Everest trekking routes where no electricity has ever been installed. The more raised – the greater potency the plant will have.

As primary sponsors, the Wolstanton-based mobility products specialist, were delighted when Roger, grateful for the financial assistance, agreed to take a lightweight stairlift model up Everest – and this will be registered in the Guinness book of records as the highest stairlift in the world!

Any other businesses that would like to help with the project are asked to contact Castle Comfort on (01782) 612771

NEW YEAR CELEBRATION 'SUMMIT'

When the chief of a Staffordshire-based stairlift specialist, climbed up a mountain to launch the Spanish version of the New Year CCC calendar – he almost bit off more than he could chew. Even fitness fanatics should not assume that the sudden urge to climb upstairs unaided, or to even more adventurous heights, can always be safe and simple.

Keith Simpson, MD of Castle Comfort, told the Clarion that after getting bored with the beach on the little known Canary Island of La Graciosa, he decided to continue his day by hiking to the summit of nearby towering Mount Bermeja. Still clad only with shorts and trainers he realised half way up that if he was to join Roger's Everest expedition then some basic training is needed.

demonstrating breathing exercises – and then lending him a pole to safely make the descent... but not until after taking photographs to record the naivety of an Englishman attempting such an ill-equipped effort.

And finally, German mountaineer Klaus treated to deserved refreshment

The high up – first off the press, CCC calendar

Despite suffering a bout of vertigo, he continued – but he was rather relieved to bump into seasoned mountaineer Klaus Klinsman at the summit. Klaus, who had just fought off a potentially dangerous attack from seagulls, was pleased to come to the rescue.

First the usual Englishman v German 1966 World Cup final confrontation - "Was it over the line?" "Yes it was/No it wasn't". Then the experienced German climber assisted Keith by

UPDATE YOUR CHAIR BED OR STAIRLIFT WITH A CCC 'TRADE IN'

By Teruka Gomez - Clarion Health Correspondent

It is always nice to update and change something - although many of us are reluctant to fix something 'that isn't broken.' The majority of the quality products supplied since CCC began at the end of the last century are still working like new. However, things change, such as the size or the needs of the user.

Colour schemes alter, many people decide to sleep downstairs and need a 'chair bed.' Many of the proud owners of 'single motor' riser-recliner chairs (which means as the foot section comes up the back goes down) are upgrading to a 'dual motor.' Simply, this means that feet can be raised while remaining in a sitting position - which is excellent for those with circulation related conditions. And of course - there is the availability of quality hide leather chairs... the absolute ultimate in luxury (see page 10)

Also, recent years have seen Castle Comfort's own specialist factories producing sofas to match the chairs - and a fabulous range of handmade quality adjustable beds of all sizes becoming available.

An exciting scheme has now been introduced by the Wolstanton based company, in conjunction with a Birmingham re-supply specialist to obtain 'trade in' prices. Many quite well used products are often in demand for supply to care homes and institutions all over the UK - or perhaps sought after for rare spare parts. This means that anyone thinking of upgrading their homecare product - be it a stairlift that is past its best, or changing an adjustable bed or chair may well get a good 'trade-in' allowance. Such a scheme is virtually unheard of in the furniture or mobility products world. Why not ask for details? Your comfort and safety at home may be even greater - and at less cost that you expected!

CCC always in the News...

Now their HQ has become a tourist attraction

As ever, the Woldstanton-based homeware products specialist has hit the headlines on many occasions. Castle Comfort's showroom is visited almost daily by many curious foreign and British visitors eager to learn about those stories and of course about the roots of Dr Faulds, the fingerprint pioneer – who is buried in the village. The Faulds plaque unveiled by Newcastle Police Commander Steve Thirk (see page 3) at CCC's courtyard has become a tourist attraction! Also visitors never fail to be impressed by the increasing 'museum' of framed press cuttings and other artefacts. Why not take a look?

Corrie actor's award comes to the rescue

A generous donation has helped give a disabled man a much-needed lift.

Colman Dale has been suffering from motor neurone disease for three years, and in recent weeks his condition has deteriorated so much he can no longer climb the stairs at his home in Dean Street, Backwell.

He is entitled to pay to a grant from social services to pay for a ground floor extension, but his occupational therapist states at The University Hospital Of North Staffordshire felt he needed a quicker solution.

They contacted the Castle Comfort Centre in Woldstanton for a quote for director Keith Simpson.

Simpson heard about Graham's situation, he believed he could do more for him. The company regally makes donations to worthy causes, out of its Doug Brown Motor Neurone Fund, and Keith felt Graham deserved some help.

He said: "We know it could take a while for them to get the funding from social services for the extension, so we thought we'd fit it for free."

"We've even fitted a large air to the bottom of the stairs, so it won't get in the way of the new door extension."

Keith added that this was the company's first William Roach award, named after the Coronation Street actor who recently helped choose Castle Comfort's 'Care Of The Year'.

Graham, aged 50, said: "I was gobsmacked, really. I don't believe they were going to pay for it all at first. This will make a huge difference for me."

Graham Dale of Backwell was thrilled to be the recipient of the first William Roach Award. When the OT department of the University Hospital contacted CCC for a quote the Woldstanton Group saw the urgent need for the 50 year old Motor Neurone sufferer and put the lift in straight away without charge.

Seen here presenting the lift are Dr. Neil Stirling of CCC, Terry Conroy, Mrs Joyce Brown and Sophie OT.

"My Castle Comfort Stairlift gives a far smoother ride than that First World War Zeppelin!"

Meet James Goodall, a most amazing and sprightly 95 year old. Jim, former renowned Hanley barber, working until he was 70, fascinated CCC staff with his detailed memories of how a German Zeppelin balloon cumberingly meandered over his Shelton home during the First World War.

Apart from that surprise aircraft visit, he recalls two other episodes - one extremely sad - when he learnt that three of his cousins - also young boys, during that era contracted and died from German measles.

The other tale, in contrast - was the excitement of his dad, also named James, safely returning home to his wife and son after completing his wartime duties. Jim Junior reminds us all of course... that many fathers didn't come back.

The Clarion editorial team and CCC staff send best wishes to Jim for the run up to his century!

James Goodall - former Hanley barber

Black Watch Veteran Ernie

Born 1919, Ernest Morris of Penkhill enjoyed 6 years as a signaller in the Black Watch serving in Africa, Italy, Sicily, Egypt and finally the Isle of Wight. Ernie, a remarkable and sprightly 88 year old, proudly recalls his 2nd World War experiences. The Clarion and all at Castle Comfort Stairlifts send best wishes to Ernie who has an enviable and positive attitude to life. He has been, like so many clients, an absolute delight to deal with, and his safety on the stairs is also shared with Patch - the two stone family cat, who just loves the ride!
